

So there I stood , frozen to the spot where I had been standing for the time when my group were having there goes. {Even some of them came down crying - that put me right off!!!} THEN , my time came...one of the men called, `one more kid please miss." I looked around and every -one was looking at me, I went up!

As I went up the rickty old ladder my heart skipped a beat.

With legs like jelly, a heart that felt like it was going to collapse and all my group going 'AMELIE,AMELIE ,AMELIE' I felt like the most unlucky person in the whole world. After it had gone quiet the man said,"do you want to come next to me and I'll get you all clipped in?" I thought in my head 'no, not really'; but I could not say that so instead I started crying. They sent me back down after trying to persuade me.

When I had my feet on solid ground again, and I had calmed down a bit, I looked back up and sort of wanted to have another go...

By Amelie