

So there I stood, standing face to face with the most terrifying thing that I will ever do... Abseiling! A high climb followed by a devastating drop off the slope. My heart pounding I was chosen to be the first person to do this, and when that happened, my fear raced up to about 95% and my legs shook, as I climbed to the top of the 15ft demonic structure. I got my harness on, but the instructor kept wasting time, and when I was ready, the other person was already down. Here I go! I think to myself, and lean backwards...

"Whoa", I said as I felt like I am flying, but after I just get to the end of the diagonal slope disaster struck as I slipped and worse yet, my shoe was falling off! I started to panic, my legs turned to jelly and my strength started to fade, I felt faint. Just as I am about to blackout, Mr Barber shouted, "leave your shoe Joe!" so I flicked my shoe off and carried on.

When I got to the bottom my legs turned back to normal and my strength started to regenerate. I feel very proud of my achievement. And I got my shoe back after it fell 14ft!
